

ASPIRING LEADERSHIP COURSE

ASPIRE. LEARN. TRANSFORM. BECOME.

The Aspiring Leadership Course is a four-day learning experience which will introduce you to key concepts needed to develop your leadership potential.

COURSE OVERVIEW

Aspiring is a highly interactive experience designed to challenge your perception of leadership. Over four fast-moving days of powerful insights, this course uses the latest research on effective learning to empower you in your journey to becoming a top performing leader.

Learn how to work in and create a high-performing team, identify your preferred leadership style, understand how people around you think, and make a plan for your leadership journey, amongst other developmental learnings.

The Aspiring Leadership Course is based on two major concepts of learning developed by Professor Carl Rogers (The Talent Foundation), who identified firstly that the more enjoyable and relaxed the program, the more people learn.

The second concept is to allow people themselves to identify how to apply the learning results in higher achievement of desired outcomes.

One significant study showed that more than 60% of participants on such an experimental active learning course felt they were able to make a more "unique and valuable contribution at work", compared to less than 45% feeling their development was worthwhile on an "ordinary" training course.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND

The Aspiring Leadership Course is best suited to people looking to develop their leadership potential. This could be someone who is aiming to boost their skillset prior to a new leadership role, or a refresher to an experienced leader.

"This opportunity has allowed me to reflect very deeply on who I am as a leader, a team member, a person on a journey." - Participant comment, 2016

"I could not believe how positive and energised the Leadership Group was after 4 days" - CEO comment, 2018
